- With your phone available for measurements, chain as many as needed to accommodate the front width of your cell phone (not the circumference). My Samsung Galaxy S4 requires 12 chains. I will use this example throughout the pattern.
- Skip the first chain, and do 3 single crochet stitches in the next chain.
- Do 1 single crochet in each chain across, stopping right before the last chain.
- In the last chain, do 3 single crochet stitches.
- Pivot your work so that you are working on the opposite side of the chain.
- Do 1 single crochet in each of the chains. Slip stitch to the first single crochet stitch. Using my example, I have a total of 24 single crochet stitches counting from the beginning.
- Working in rounds now, chain 1, and do 1 single crochet in each stitch around. Total = 24 single crochet stitches.
- You have a choice of easily changing colors for stripes (please see video for an easy no-cut/no-weave method) or you can continue along in the same color. Help video: http://youtube.com/naztazia (look for cell phone cozy case)
- Continue on in rounds to accommodate the height of your phone.
- Finish off the last round by slip stitching to the first stitch, then cut and weave in your ends.
- Sew a button or other closure on to the case.
- Make a loop for wrapping around the button by chaining approximately 12-14 chains with 2 strands of yarn, depending upon the size of your phone/button.
- Connect the loop by knotting it to the back of the case. Wrap the loop around the button to close the case.
